Historical Note

E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Company was organized in Paris in 1801 by Pierre Samuel du Pont de Nemours (1739-1817) and his son Eleuthère Irénée "E.I." du Pont (1771-1834). The next year, E.I. du Pont purchased a mill site on the banks of the Brandywine River just north of Wilmington, Delaware, and began making preparations to establish a black powder manufactory. During the winter of 1802 to 1803, E.I. du Pont recruited a small workforce and began building the company's mills. By the spring of 1804, the powder was being produced, and the company had secured a commitment from President Thomas Jefferson to purchase DuPont gunpowder for the Army and Navy. With this contract in place, the company started to recruit immigrant Irish workers for the mills and hired its first independent sales agents.

During the War of 1812, the DuPont Company became a major supplier of gunpowder for the U.S. government as its total sales exceeded 500,000 pounds. After the war, the company expanded as it began selling large quantities of powder to coal mine operators and railroad entrepreneurs. In 1837 Henry du Pont (1812-1889), E.I. du Pont's son, took over the management of the company and began to rationalize the company's managerial practices. During the Civil War, DuPont became the largest supplier of powder for the Union Army, and in the late 1860s and 1870s, it used its wartime profits to purchase control of many of its competitors.

In 1872 DuPont organized the Gunpowder Trade Association, which acted as a cartel to limit competition and raise prices. In the late 1880s and early 1890s, the company began experimenting with smokeless powder, and it purchased the rights to distribute dynamite in America from Alfred Nobel. By the late nineteenth century, the company was beginning to lose market share as its mills were becoming obsolete. In 1899 DuPont incorporated and began to modernize its mills and rationalize its archaic management structure.

Throughout the 1900s and 1910s, the company shifted its focus away from gunpowder production and towards chemistry innovations.

Scope and Content

The collection consists of records of the firm of E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Company collected by P.S. du Pont and separated from the main body of company records. Series I. contains correspondence with over 500 individuals and firms, including customers, suppliers, sales agents, and shippers, and between the partners and the employees of the firm. The letters between E.I. du Pont and Peter Bauduy contain much detail about the establishment and early progress of the company. This series also contains a diary of Lamot du Pont and copies of his letters during a business trip to Europe (1858), giving an account of refineries and powder factories in England, France, Belgium, and Prussia.

Series II. consists of accounts covering sales, production, supplies, construction, and real estate. Of particular interest are the itemized statements prepared by E.I. du Pont or Raphael Du Planty to explain the financial affairs of the company to its foreign stockholders.

Series III. consists of special papers relating to several lawsuits, including that of Peter Bauduy (1815-1829) charging mismanagement, that of Madame Bureaux de Pusy over dividends, and other suits against employees for pirating tools and techniques. Other papers relate to the organization of the company, contracts, and land and water rights. Memos and reports on operations include an examination by Lamot du Pont of the powder mills at Dartford, England (1851), lists of workmen at the Brandywine Works, patents for improvements in explosives, and a record of accidents and explosions at Brandywine (1815-1902).

Accounts, 1800-1894 bulk 1802-1815

Scope and Content

Accounts cover the earliest years of company growth, as well as the time when the United States was at war. Included are statements of accounts, bills and receipts, bills of lading, checks, drafts, and bills of exchange, inventories, invoices, orders, promissory notes and protests, bank deposit books, and memoranda on accounts. Accounts include signatures and single pages from and drafts for company ledgers, prepared by E.I. du Pont, Peter Bauduy, and company clerks, as well as creditors' statements and appended memoranda. Items from company records are arranged for each year in a block, and precede those presented to the company. Accounts from ledgers are filed according to the earliest date recorded therein. Creditors' statements, most of which concern local Wilmington or Philadelphia merchants and tradesmen, are arranged alphabetically; a single item frequently covers the supply of goods or services for a period of several years.

Of particular interest are the itemized statements which were prepared by E.I. du Pont or Raphael Du Planty to explain the financial affairs for company stockholders, especially for those who were also members of the firm of DuPont de Nemours, Père et Fils & Cie. The Articles of Association of 1801 required that annual inventories of credits and supplies be made until the projected termination or continuation of the company on 1 January 1810. The most significant statements of accounts were prepared for the inventories of the year 1809, upon the first renewal of the partnership, and for 1814, upon the withdrawal of Bauduy as a partner, which took place by agreement on 15 February 1815; they cover the periods 1801-09 and 1801-14, respectively, and are filed for the year for which they were made.

Many of the longer bills were checked, item by item and one or more times, for entry in company ledgers by Raphael Du Planty, who noted on certain bills which individual goods and services were to be debited to E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. or to DuPont, Bauduy & Co., or to the personal accounts of E.I. du Pont, Victor du Pont, other members of the family, or employees of the company and various related concerns. Itemized bills to the company for hauling, prepared by wagoners or company clerks, are also useful for a similar differentiation of debtors.

Remaining single items are filed for each year, according to type, and arranged chronologically; most of these were endorsed by E.I. du Pont or by clerks, identifying the debtor or creditor and listing the date of record in a company ledger. The few bills of exchange are informative on transfers of credit to or from French stockholders and London bankers during the Napoleonic period. Bills of lading and invoices indicate the role of company agents and the powder magazines of the United States in the supply and sale of powder, saltpetre, and sulphur. The promissory notes in this series reflect the financial role of Bauduy in these early years. The checks reveal the early dependence of E.I. du Pont on the Bank of Delaware, and his gradual transfer of business to the Bank of Wilmington & Brandywine and the Farmers Bank of the State of Delaware, all of which were in Wilmington.

Patents for Explosives, 1864-1892

Scope and Content

Included letters patent issued by the United States Patent Office, certified copies, petitions by patentees, and related items concerning patents for explosive compounds. The most extensive series includes the consecutive transfer of assignments of patents issued to Alfred Nobel for the invention of nitroglycerin, and the patent and market arrangements of the Atlantic Giant Powder Co., the Giant Powder Co. (both incorporated in California), and the United States Blasting Oil Co., of New York. Nobel's nitroglycerin patents, held by the United States Blasting Oil Co., were assigned, after its failure, by Taliaferro P. Shaffner and in turn by Joseph P. Stewart, to the Atlantic Giant Powder Co., which, with its parent company, the Giant Powder Co., divided the American market.
